

FIND A NEW FRIEND

In a social rut, or just moved to a new city and finding it hard to meet like-minded buddies? You're not the only one. When Victoria Jenkins [left] first moved to London, she was on her own, fed up and bored. Realising she probably wasn't the only one, she decided to set up fridaynightsucks.com – a website designed to ensure even the loneliest soul has someone to hang out with after work at the end of the week. Easy to use and ultra-cheap, we love the '11th hour help!' option for when someone's let you down at the last minute and you need a plus one.

Log on for an instant party crowd. Champagne not included